Eisenhower Vetoes Support Freeze Bill

Finished Or Not

Special Legislature Session Winding Up

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's special legislative session comes to the end of the line this week. Whether their work is finished or not, the legislators must adjourn by Friday midnight.

Leaders in both houses have their sights set on adjournment by Thursday but as the week opened there still was much to be done, with major differences between the House and the Senate on appropriations yet unresolved.

House and Senate conferees were to start work on that problem this afternoon, trying to reach an agreement that would bring the figures into line.

Two major conflicts have developed—one over the amount to be allotted for aid to dependent children, the other over funds for state aid to county roads.

The House cut the ADC funds sharply while the Senate whittled the county aid road funds by a million dollars. The Senate was reported ready to split the difference and compromise on $2½ million, which would be $500,000 less than the House approved.

But there was no indication how far the House would go in restoring the ADC cuts, which were voted after bitter charges that the state welfare program was subsidizing illegitimacy.

Other arguments are expected to arise over the so-called omnibus bill, the final catchall measure that carries scores of claims and special appropriations. It is ready for passage in the House after being cut down to a bare bones basis.

At the end of the regular session last May 31, the omnibus bill got caught in wild confusion in the final hours and the session had to adjourn without passing it at all.

But in this election year, both House and Senate members have said they want to avoid such a confused finish for the special session.

Three Persons Are Injured In Car Crash

Accident Occurs At Ninth and Limit Sunday Afternoon

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision at Ninth and Limit in front of the J and D Grill, about 5:35 p.m. Sunday. One of the cars was extensively damaged.

Jamie Anderson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Van Winkle, 1807 South Carr, suffered severe cuts on his face, the bridge of his nose, another from the corner of his mouth back almost to his ear on the right side, and scrapes on the left cheek. He was treated by Dr. A. L. Walter.

Loy Lee Holman, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Holman, 1421 West Tenth, driver of the car in which Anderson was riding, suffered a cut on the forehead over the right eye. He was treated by Dr. John B. Carlisle.

Miss Doris Hancock, 15, Route 3, Sedalia, suffered a neck injury and received treatment at Bothwell Hospital. She was examined and dismissed to go to her home. According to the police report, a 1956 Ford sedan driven by Gerald Edward Hancock, 21, of Route 3, Sedalia, and in which Miss Hancock, his sister, was riding, was headed south on Limit, and in front of the J and D Grill started to make a left turn to go to the grill. The second car, a 1949 Chevrolet sedan driven by young Holman, also headed south, came upon it and smashed into the right rear portion of the Hancock car.

As the cars crashed, Anderson was thrown against the windshield. The left front of the Holman car was extensively damaged, while considerable damage resulted to the left rear and side of the Ford car.

Young Holman said he and Anderson had been at the Broadway Bowling Lanes and had just left there to go to their homes for dinner. He said he was not traveling more than 20 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

The Holman car was towed to Bacon's Service station by the wrecker from there, Hancock's car was driveable.

He Terms It Ill Advised; 'Thaw Needed'

Step Comes Despite Appeals From Many GOP Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today vetoed the farm price support freeze bill, calling it "ill advised from the standpoint both of the nation and of our farm families."

In a veto message to Congress the President said:

"With regard to government controls, what the farm economy needs is a thaw rather than a freeze."

Eisenhower's election year action on the measure came despite appeals from a good many Republicans in Congress that he sign the controversial bill.

In announcing his veto, Eisenhower said a five-point program should be undertaken to deal with farm problems. Some sections of that program, embodied in the President's agriculture message to Congress in January, call for legislation.

"Ample authority already exists for others," Eisenhower said.

It takes a two-thirds majority of members voting in both the Senate and the House to override a presidential veto.

The measure passed both the House and Senate by sizable majorities, but the margins were far short of the two-thirds required to override.

Eisenhower said he had given earnest consideration to the arguments for and against the bill, but that it is his judgment that to approve the measure "would be ill advised, from the standpoint of both the nation and of our farm families as well."

The bill freezes farm price supports at no less than 1957 levels for one year.

The President said approval of the bill would have such consequences as these:

"1. It would pile up more farm products in government warehouses.

"2. It would restrict the growth of markets.

"3. It would postpone the day when agriculture can be released from the straitjacket of controls.

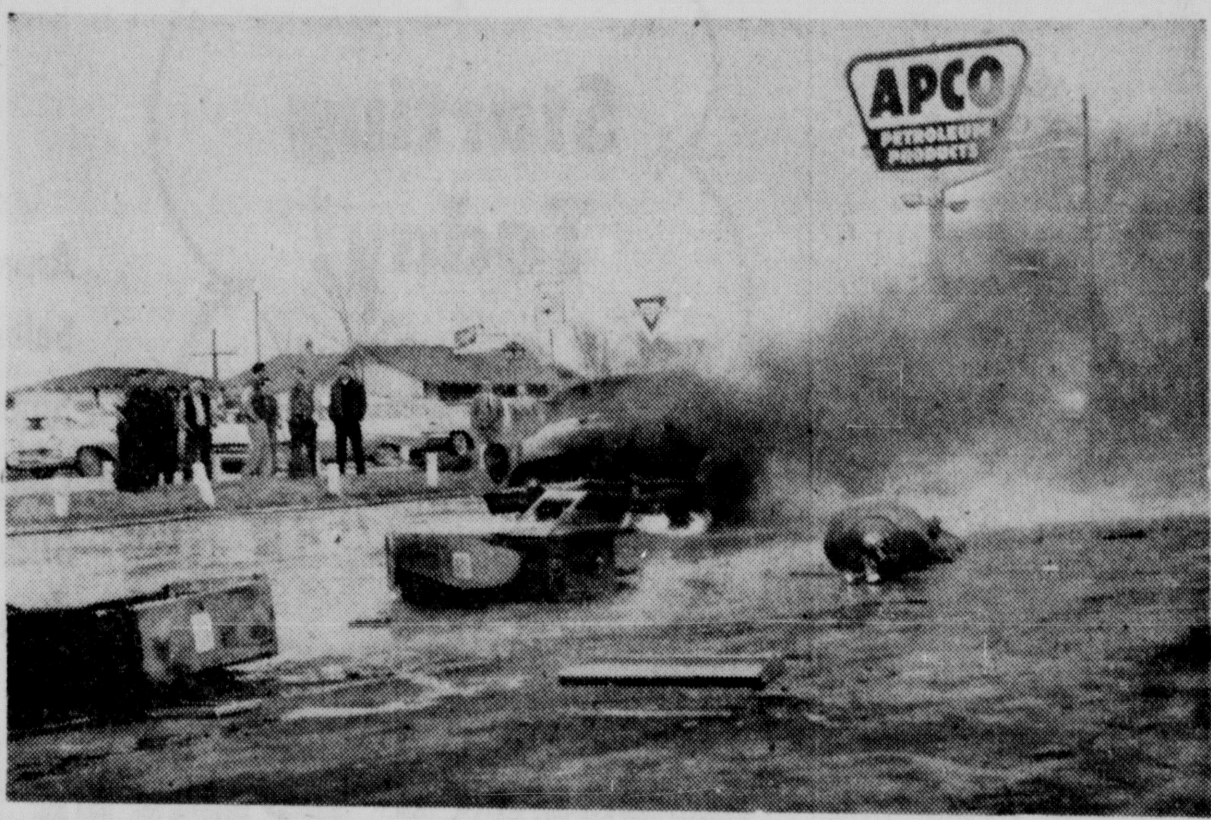

"4. It would bypass the problems of the small operator who produces so little for sale that price supports have scant meaning.

"5. It would hold up the needed transition to modern parity and would in fact disregard the parity principle.

"6. It would be unfair to those winter wheat growers who signed up under the 1958 acreage reserve program with the understanding that the price supports which had then been announced would be the effective rates."

STRIKE!—This automobile, a 1954 Buick driven by Mrs. Mary Evans, Kansas City, Kan., mowed down two gasoline pumps of a service station at Asoline Alley Sunday afternoon and

Near Tragedy Occurs At Gasoline Alley

Car Crashes Into Bill's Gas Pumps; Passengers Escape

A near-tragedy occurred at Gasoline Alley at the intersection of Highway 50 and West Main about 4 p.m. Sunday when a car crashed into two pumps at Bill's APCO service station. The car's three occupants escaped with minor injuries. They were pulled through the windows of the car as flames shot up from beneath it.

Mrs. Mary Evans, Negro, of Kansas City, Kan., was the driver of the automobile, a 1954 Buick Roadmaster sedan, which she reported was owned by a friend. She suffered cuts on the inside of the right leg just above the ankle.

Mrs. Charles Williams, 34, of 3401 Montgall, an expectant mother, Kansas City, suffered slight shock, a cut on the right foot and numerous scratches.

Her husband, Charles Williams, 29, received a severe cut on the leg which required several stitches.

Mrs. Evans told Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol, that she was driving west on Highway 50.

"I was pulled out into the left lane to pass several cars," she said, "when a car all of a sudden turned out left, apparently to also pass cars, and I had to swerve to miss the car. A car was parked on the highway and to also miss it, I drove into the service station driveway. I felt I could drive through there without hitting anyone," she said.

The car showed skid marks for about 60 feet on the concrete, from the point where the car left the highway onto the gravel drive. It traveled 186 feet and crashed into two gasoline pumps on a west island. The car swerved as it came into the drive and knocked down two wooden posts which help to form a semi-circle between the highway right-of-way and the station driveway.

The pumps were knocked loose from the concrete base and went more than 30 feet. A light pole standard between the two pumps was also knocked to the ground. S-Sgt. Paul Brayman, stationed at the station, said the car was driven by a woman who was driving west on Highway 50.

Old West Ambush Varner Murder Trial Opens With Jury Selection Monday

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The first degree murder trial of Victor (Tex) Varner on a charge of ambushing and killing a rival ranch operator opened today with the state announcing its case would be based largely on circumstantial evidence.

Varner, dapperly dressed in cowboy garb, sat calmly at the defense counsel table with his hands clasped in front of him as the selection of the jury began.

He is accused by the state of shooting Edwin Boyesen, 46, and his 15-year-old hired hand, Larry Dale Irwin, in a typical "old west" style ambush in the Lake of the Ozarks State Park near Osage Beach last July 5.

The 50-year-old Varner is being tried before Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair only on the charge of slaying Boyesen. The case came here on a change of venue. The Fire Damages Wyan House And Contents

Fire believed to have started by children playing with fire resulted in a fire loss estimated at $1,500 to the residence and $1,000 to contents at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyan, 1612 South Monticau, about 11:20 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Wyan received scorched eyebrows and hair and a blistered right hand when she attempted to fight the blaze before the fire companies arrived.

Mrs. Wyan, who takes care of her three grandchildren, James Edward Hanson, nine, Jo Ann D. Hanson, seven, and William Earl Hanson, three, was preparing to dress the children when the fire was discovered.

James Edward had started into the kitchen when he suddenly screamed out, "Fire, fire!" William Earl was in the back room where the fire was started, and she got him out in a hurry. "It just flared up over in the corner around the curtains," Mrs. Wyan said, "and I tried to put it out. When it got beyond my control, I called the fire departments."

The back room was charred. The heat was so intense it blistered paper and paint in the other rooms of the one-story residence. The house was filled with smoke.

The fire department was able to confine the flames in time to keep them from spreading into the front portion of the residence.

Warns West Must Follow

Resolution Does Not Set Up Any Specific Date for Start

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it is halting all hydrogen and atomic weapons tests but warned it will be free to resume them if the West does not follow suit.

A resolution introduced in the Supreme Soviet — parliament — asked the Cabinet to take steps to halt the tests but set no date.

"If other countries possessing hydrogen and atomic weapons continue their tests," the resolution said, "the Soviet government will be free to act in the same manner in the interests of the security of the Soviet union."

The long-expected announcement of the suspension was made to a joint session of Parliament by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko before a joint session of the Supreme Soviet.

There was tremendous applause as he announced this decision of Premier Khrushchev's new Cabinet.

When the unilateral decision becomes effective — once it is approved by the Supreme Soviet — and how long it would remain in effect was not immediately clear.

It was the impression of those who heard Gromyko that the ban would be applied at once.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union hoped that the United States and Britain would join in the suspension of tests.

Gromyko said the Soviet Union considers itself free to end the suspension if the other powers did not join in. He did not indicate how long the Soviet Union would wait.

"We realize that ending of tests does not avert the danger of war," Gromyko told the 1,378 deputies. "When one side tests a series of bombs, the other side tries to catch up."

The foreign minister ridiculed U. S. claims to having produced clean bombs relatively free of radioactive fallout.

"They write about them touchingly but all this is simply to divert people from the main problem—a choice between peace and an atomic war," he said.

"They do the same as did former President Truman, trying to justify the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They are trying to make it seem that atom bombs are for the good of the people. But this conception is alien to the interests of peace and mankind."

"The opponents of banning tests fear that this will bring an end to the production of nuclear weapons. This is the strong point of the test ban. If the test ban turns out to be a cold shower for the hotbeds in NATO, then that alone is a good point."

Judy Garland Walks
Off Stage, Says She

NEW YORK (AP)—Judy Garland sang "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries" at a Brooklyn night club last night, told the audience she had a "terrible case of laryngitis" and walked off the stage.

"It doesn't matter anyway," she said, referring to the laryngitis, "because I've been fired."

She had appeared at the Town and Country Club more than an hour late.

Ben Maksik, owner of the club, said he advanced Miss Garland $40,000 before she arrived here. The singer and her husband Sid Luft, whom she sued for divorce March 4 in California, denied they received $40,000 from Maksik.

Yesterday afternoon, Miss Garland said, she called Maksik to ask for money, saying there was no food in her house. Maksik refused, Miss Garland added. The owner denied this.

Maksik said he signed the singer for a 3½ week engagement at $25,000 a week. She opened March 20 to good notices.

Ike Attends
Birthday Party
For Grandson

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A birthday party for grandson David, who is 10, precedes President Eisenhower's return to the White House today.

David, son of Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, is the President's only grandson. The chief executive delights in roaming his country estate with David, or helping him brush up on golf or fly casting when occasion permits.

The boy's parents and three sisters also were visiting.

With Eisenhower scheduled to get back to Washington by noon or a bit later a morning birthday party was arranged for David. What gifts the president and Mrs. Eisenhower had picked out for their grandson was a private, undisclosed, family matter.

Over the weekend, a White House official said, Eisenhower studied reports from interested government agencies on farm and housing measures and talked three times by long-distance telephone with Secretary of State Dulles about America's position on a summit meeting.

Sometime during the week he is scheduled to act on the $1,850,000,000 housing bill, designed as an economic shot in the arm for sagging business, and the bill to freeze farm price supports at 1957 levels for another year.

Eisenhower is generally expected to sign the housing bill, but a veto of the farm bill is considered likely.

Official business received minimum attention over a Friday-to-Monday weekend the chief executive spent at his Gettysburg farm. For the most part it was a weekend of relaxation.

It Was a Good Show, But Youth Couldn't Last

A 13-year-old boy, Bobby Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers, St. Louis, who is a visitor in Sedalia, became too tired to watch the picture at the Uptown Theatre and fell asleep in the show Sunday night. He was still sleeping when the show was over and the theatre locked up.

His parents arrived a few seconds before the show was locked and were told the show was out and everyone had gone. No sooner had they departed than the manager with Police Officer Tucker decided to go back in and take a quick look to determine if the lad could still be there.

Tucker took the balcony and the manager the lower floor. Tucker had made his check and peeked over the balcony edge just as the manager found the lad. He was sitting in his seat with his head resting against the wall — fast asleep.

He was partially awakened and led out of the theatre by the manager, who again locked the place up and then took the boy to his car. He finally learned from the boy, through the latter's sleepy yawns, that he was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Englund, 606 East 11th. The manager then drove him home.

The boy's father is well known here as a former coach at Smith-Cotton, Bob Rogers, who with Mrs. Rogers and children are also visiting here for a few days.

Near Tragedy

at the Whiteman AFB but living at 501½ North Prospect, was parked, in his car, at a gas pump island to the south of the two which were hit. William Pate, operator of the station, was filling Brayman's car when he said he heard a crash, looked up and saw the pumps flying through the air.

Brayman said he didn't remember if he drove his car out of the way of the fire, or if someone else did. But he did get over to the wrecked vehicle as flames were coming out, knocked out a window on the driver's side and pulled the Evans woman out through the window, with the help of Pate.

Pate said that when the crash came, he dropped the gas hose and ran all the way around the other pumps to get back to the car which was but a few steps to the north of his original starting point.

Williams, when he tried to open the door on the right side of the car, found it jammed and he kicked out the window and crawled out. Brayman, Lloyd Arnett, of Green Ridge, and Williams helped to pull Mrs. Williams out through the smashed window.

It was believed the injuries to the three resulted when they were pulled through the broken glass.

The fire started almost immediately. The Pettis County Fire Department was summoned and began using 50 pounds of chemical on the fire. No sooner had they had it nearly out when it would blaze again. It was then found the gasoline lines from the large storage tanks had not been shut off, and this fed raw gasoline to the area which kept igniting from the sparks.

The fire truck ran out of water and had to return to Sedalia to get its tanks filled up, and on their second "hitch" at the fire soon had the blaze out, but complete extinguishing did not come until after George Chamberlin with one of his wreckers had lifted the car up and off of the island.

The car was demolished from the crash and fire. It had to be towed to the Chamberlin's Service Station on a "dolly".

Damage to the service station equipment consisted of the concrete island being broken, the light post knocked down and the two gasoline pumps demolished. The total losses, it was said, would run into several hundred dollars.

The fire attracted a large crowd of Sunday drivers passing the scene.

Williams, his wife and Mrs. Evans were taken to Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance, where Dr. A. R. Maddox rendered medical treatment.

He was born July 16, 1885, in Pittsburg, Kan., the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Lueker. He moved with his parents to Concordia when a small child and attended parochial school here. He was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Miss Louise Cassing

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon for Miss Louise Cassing, 74, San Francisco, Calif., who died at a hospital there, with the Rev. Paul Kasper officiating.

Injury Jinx Still Dogs Indian Team

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The injury jinx still is dogging the Cleveland Indians. It has cut down veteran Vic Wertz, the only solid man in Manager Bobby Bragan's infield.

The 33-year-old first baseman, who belted polio for a loop in 1955 and was voted the AP's Comeback of the Year award in '56, suffered a fractured ankle yesterday. He will be lost for at least nine weeks.

The injury came as Wertz slid into second base in the third inning of a 12-10 exhibition defeat by the San Francisco Giants at Tucson, Ariz. His spikes caught in the dirt.

Wertz was figured to join outfielders Minnie Minoso and Rocky Colavito for the Tribe's RBI and power hope. Vic led the club with 28 homers last season and had 105 RBIs, second in the league.

With Wertz out, the Indians are expected to recall Joe Altobelli, sent back to the minors just last week, while getting as many games as they can from Mickey Vernon, the 40-year-old first baseman collected from the Boston Red Sox for the waiver price last January.

Altobelli battled a mere .207 in 83 games with the Indians last year. Vernon played in 102 games with the Red Sox, batting .241.

Pitcher Cal McLish was tagged but good as the Giants came from behind with four runs in the ninth yesterday. Rookie Orlando Cepeda's second home run of the game, with two on, made it 11-10 and Bobby Thomson then hit the Giants' fifth home run of the day.

Rookie Willie Kirkland, Ray Jablonski and Cepeda connected for consecutive home runs off starter Dick Brodowski for a short-lived 7-3 lead in the fifth. Curt Barclay was the winner.

Only one other exhibition game was played. The Chicago Cubs defeated Baltimore 2-1 in 12 innings on Ken Lehman's bases-loaded walk to Dale Long. Rookie Dolan Nichols, pitching perfect ball in his 2-3 innings, was the winner. Long also drove in the other Cub run, smacking a first-inning double off Connie Johnson.

Turncoat's Return Stirs Speculation

HONG KONG (AP)—The return of another American turncoat from Communist China aroused speculation today that more soon would follow.

LaRance Sullivan said after crossing the border that he wanted to be the first of the three Negro turncoats to go home.

The 27-year-old former sergeant was dishonorably discharged from the U.S. Army with 20 other Americans who refused repatriation from Communist capture in Korea. Sullivan, of Omaha, Neb., and Santa Barbara, Calif., has been described as the bitterest of the lot.

"I went to China with the skin and heart of a Negro," Sullivan told newsmen. "I lived happily with the people in a spirit of peace."

Dressed in a blue suit and looking healthy, he said the Peiping government treated him well during 4 years and 2 months in China, found him a job as a factory worker in a provincial city and paid him a subsidy while he worked there.

"I went to China to work and study and to add my voice to the cause of peace. I did work and study and I was very happy among a soul-stirring people, a peace-loving people, but I thought it was time to come home," he said.

Sullivan said he studied "the international situation, which today is really a state of hysteria caused by warmongers."

Sullivan is expected to sail for home Saturday. His exit left 11 other turncoats in Communist China. The two other Negroes are Clarence C. Adams, Memphis, Tenn., and William M. C. White, Kansas City.

Rule Infractions Committee Meets

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The group which checks whether member colleges are following the rules—the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. committee on infractions—began a two-day meeting today.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said several pending cases were scheduled for discussion. The committee's recommendations are secret until the 18-man policy-directing council acts on them later, probably in mid-April.

US Leads the World As Most Radio Active

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is "the hottest place in the world" in terms of radioactivity in the atmosphere, says Dr. William F. Libby of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

"A major fraction" of the fallout in the United States, according to Libby, is of Soviet origin.

TWO FOR THE SEESAW

Bobby Jones Recovers From Friday Attack

ATLANTA (AP)—Bobby Jones, 56-year-old former grand slam golfing champion, is recovering rapidly from a circulatory collapse and may leave the hospital today.

Jones suffered the attack at his home Friday night. His blood pressure dropped but there was no pain, his doctor said. Tests at the hospital showed no evidence of any serious disorder. He has undergone surgery twice for a spinal ailment since 1948 and suffered a mild heart attack in 1952.

Jones retired from golfing in 1930 after winning the British and U.S. amateur and open tournaments the same year.

Skating Pair Out to Hold Figure Titles

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Carol Heiss and Dave Jenkins fixed an even tighter hold on their world figure skating supremacy today, but at least one expert said they are no cinch to win the 1960 Olympics.

Miss Heiss, bubbly 18-year-old college coed from Ozone Park, N. Y., repeated as women's national champion Saturday night by a miles-ahead margin over four rivals. Jenkins retained his national crown Friday night.

The two champions may be unbeatable for the next year or so, at least, said skating coach Edi Scholdan.

"Because figure skating is developing greater skills all the time, David and Carol probably are the greatest amateur figure skaters who ever lived," said the Austrian-born instructor, Jenkins' coach. "But they may have a very tough time winning the Olympics."

The experts see it this way: Figure skaters usually reach a competitive peak about the age of 21 or 22. They can remain top-notchers for some time afterwards if they have the surpassing skills of Miss Heiss and Jenkins, but the gap between them and new talent narrows rapidly.

Jenkins, 21, and Miss Heiss can hit still higher pitches of skating skill, their coaches agree. "But by 1960," Scholdan said, "who's to say if someone might not have developed to the point where David and Carol can be beaten."

Boston, St. Louis Cagers in 1-1 Tie

BOSTON (AP)—It looks like last year all over again in the National Basketball Assn. playoff finals as defending champion Boston and St. Louis move westward locked in a 1-1 tie.

The Celtics outlasted the Hawks 136-112 Sunday and deadlocked the best-of-seven final series. Boston had done the same thing 12 months ago in the second contest with a 20-point 119-99 decision.

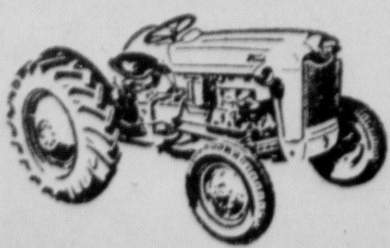

In the Saturday opener before a nationwide television audience, St. Louis eked out a 104-102 decision. A year ago the margin was the same for the Hawks, 123-125, in overtime.

KC Mound Coach Likes Ralph Terry

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Spud Chandler, pitching coach for the Kansas City Athletics, says young Ralph Terry will be one of the American League's great pitchers for years to come.

"If the Yankees offered to trade us Whitey Ford for Terry I'd recommend we turn down the deal," Chandler said. "Ford probably would be a better pitcher this season and possibly next, but he's 29 years old and Terry is 22."

"I wouldn't trade him for Billy Pierce (Chicago White Sox) either. If Herb Score's eye is all right, then I'd have to take Score (Cleveland Indians), but he's the only one I'd put ahead of Terry."

Chandler, former Yankee hurler, says Terry's only trouble "is that he throws too much junk." "He thinks he can get by with the easy way, but you can't do it in the major leagues. If he'll just keep throwing his fast ball he'll be tough to beat."

Terry shut out Philadelphia Saturday 4-0. He allowed five hits, fanned 10 and walked 3. Last season, Terry won 5 and lost 12, but had an earned run average of 3.34.

Featherweights Tangle in Bout Tuesday Night

The Associated Press

The little guys fight for big money tomorrow night when Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey defends his world featherweight title against Mexico's colorful Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno at Los Angeles. The 15-rounder won't be telecast.

For this first defense of the 126-pound division crown, the 25-year-old African has been guaranteed $75,000 plus expenses. Moreno, a 21-year-old, will receive $38,000 plus expenses. Few featherweights aside from Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler ever have collected such fat purses.

Bassey, a fine boxer-puncher, probably will be about a 2-1 favorite. He won the crown vacated by Saddler when he stopped France's Cherif Hamia in the 10th round in Paris June 24, 1957.

Saddler, now retired, will have a rooting interest in tonight's television 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. The ex-featherweight champ trains Rudy Sawyer of New York, who meets Jimmy Peters of Washington. Du Mont will telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

There should be plenty of action at Louisville Wednesday night in the television scrap between middleweight contender Rory Calhoun, White Plains, N.Y., and light heavyweight ranker Yolande Pompey of Trinidad. Both can punch.

A couple of veteran campaigners, former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones, Yonkers, N.Y., meet for the third time at Philadelphia's Arena Friday night.

Golf Nomads Gather For Masters Play

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Golf's nomads began assembling today for the 22nd Masters Tournament and they seemed to share one topic of conversation — the weather.

"If we have much more of this rain this course will be a backbreaker," said Jack Burke Jr., 1956 winner. "It's long and tough normally. Yesterday I wore myself out trying to reach the par 4 greens in two."

Byron Nelson, who has played in 20 of the 21 Masters, commented: "I don't remember when the course has played longer."

An all-day rain drenched the Augusta National layout, President Eisenhower's favorite links. More rain was forecast today. The tournament starts Thursday.

The course measures 6,990 yards and has a par of 36-36-72.

Because of its tremendous length, Augusta may prove too much of a heavyweight for the two spectacular visitors from the Orient, Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura and Koichi Ono, who won the Canada Cup for Japan last October in Tokyo.

These two Japanese have excited the imagination of those who were unable to see them wall-p Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret by nine shots in the Tokyo tournament which drew leading professionals from 29 nations.

Nakamura and Ono barely were beaten by Snead and Demaret in an exhibition Saturday on Snead's home course at Boca Raton, Fla. The Americans won by two strokes with a score of 140 on a 69 by Snead and a 71 by Demaret. Nakamura, who sank three putts of more than 30 feet, had a 70 and Ono shot a 72.

Believes Cards Will Match Braves Power

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals says he thinks his offense will match defending champion Milwaukee in power.

Hutchinson said, however, that much depends on Ken Boyer and Wally Moon. "If they come through, we'll have as much power as the Braves," he said.

Boyer has been splitting his time between center field and base. He shares the Red Bird batting lead with Stan Musial at 3.75.

Last season, Boyer hit only .265, but Hutchinson doesn't think his spring batting is a flash in the pan performance. "He had a good year in '56 (.306) and assumed last spring it would be easy again without working on it," said Hutchinson.

"We talked to him like a Dutch uncle. Now he's determined to do something about it."

Braves Can't Expect to Have Same Easy Success Over Reds

BRADENTON, Fla. (NEA)—A rather obscure major league club president, Joseph F. Cairnes, suddenly finds himself with the reputation of being baseball's top hatchet man.

The rash of Milwaukee holdouts had the stars of other outfits talking. "What kind of business men are they?" asked Stan Musial, the Cardinals' $100,000 a year league batting champion, when told that Bob Buhl, the 18-game winner who beat the Dodgers, got $16,000.

Lew Burdette, reportedly getting $25,000, asked for $40,000, was offered $30,000. Burdette last fall became the first man in 37 years to pitch three complete games in a World Series and win them—against the Yankees. The explosive pitcher out of Nitro, W.Va., knows he will never do it again, was richly entitled to ask for more.

Shortstop Johnny Logan implied that he wasn't collecting $20,000. Gene Conley was asked to take the full 25 per cent cut. Wes Covington, Frank Torre and Bob Hazle, who couldn't have been paid much more than the minimum $6,500, squawked violently.

"What are they doing," asked Del Ennis of the Cardinals, "paying the ushers instead of the actors?"

"It isn't John Quinn's (general manager) fault," remarked one of the satisfied Braves, toasting himself in the clubhouse of Bradenton's Braves Field. "That cold fish Cairnes cuts a pretty fine piece of cloth. You'd expect this from a club going broke, but this is a world championship team. It has drawn more people and made more money than anybody in baseball for the last five years."

"The rent was something like a dollar a year when the club moved to Milwaukee. And this year, when the county raised it by $300,000, still a bargain basement price, Cairnes raised the admission rates the next day."

AAU Cagers Compete Against Soviet Team

DENVER (AP)—Twelve of the outstanding performers in the National AAU basketball tournament will compete against the Soviet Union's championship team starting April 24 in Russia.

The U. S. All-Stars, picked yesterday after Peoria won the title in a 74-71 thriller over Denver, will play a six-game series throughout Russia. The first contest will be in Moscow.

Bartlesville, Okla., a nine-time AAU titlist, won the consolation crown by trouncing Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., 93-66.

As picked by tourney officials, the all-star players and the teams they represented in the AAU meet are:

Chuck Wolfe, B.H. Born, Howie Crittenden and Dean and Al Kelley of Peoria; Burdy Halderson and Joe Dean of Bartlesville; Terry Rand and Harv Schmidt of Denver; Dick Bouschka of Wichita and Bob Jeangerard of the Air Force.

Who is this Cairnes, who all at once finds himself a hot potato? Well, in the first place, the big, handsome Irishman of 50 is Lou Perini's "no" man.

"Lou doesn't want anything done by remote control," said Cairnes, over a Scotch and plain water in the Manatee Hotel cocktail lounge. "He doesn't want anything held up while John (Quinn) and myself are trying to reach him."

Perini's yacht, the Bontina, is now in Florida waters, but the last time Cairnes telephoned him the chairman of the board was at Chutes des Passes, way up in the Canadian bush where he is building an $80 million hydroelectric plant. The boss might have been in Australia, where with Henry J. Kaiser he is boring an $80 million tunnel. He might have been in Timbuctoo or north of Nome. Cairnes would say no for him.

The Perini Corporation of Farmington, Mass., last year completed $162 million worth of heavy construction. The head man should worry about Lew Burdette asking for $15,000 more! Maybe he would throw him a bratwurst.

Cairnes, a civil engineer of sorts, was the commissioner of public works for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He also has been in the construction business.

"When you can't beat them, join them," he laughed.

Perini put Cairnes in charge of the concessions at Brave Field in Boston in 1949 and throughout the far-flung chain as the organization spread. Cairnes then engineered and closed the fantastic deal for Milwaukee County Stadium in '53. "My only previous affiliation with baseball is that Brother Gilbert was my older brother," he said. "His real name was Phillip Cairnes."

Brother Gilbert was the kindly, legendary figure who raised the immortal Babe Ruth at Saint Mary's Industrial School in Baltimore.

With this, Joe insists he is not looking to pay depression wages. He says the Braves' front office isn't exactly on the cheap side. Warren Spahn is down for $65,000, Henry Aaron and Red Schoendienst get $40,000 and Eddie Mathews $35,000. The payroll will total $600,000.

But the grumbling is evident because Cairnes has to be shown why—and then some. This is Brother Joseph, not Brother Gilbert.

Crankcase Crisis!

It seems this nice old lady drove into a Phillips 66 Station to fill up with Flite-Fuel. When the attendant checked the dipstick, he found she had only about a quart of oil left in her car. When he pointed this out, she replied: "Fine . . . as soon as I use that up, I'll put in some more!"

Of course the Phillips Dealer explained that she needed five quarts of oil for adequate lubrication!

Now that spring is here, it's time to think about the oil in your crankcase. If you are still using "winter grade" oil, it's time to change it. But why use two, when one will do? Better switch to Phillips 66 Trop-Artic* which gives you the effects of 10w, 20 and 30 grade oils. Compared to old-fashioned oils Trop-Artic Motor Oil can actually double engine life. New Chemical Melts Away Blood Clots

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Dangerous blood clots are safely melted away by shots of a newlyfound chemical scientists reported today.

It has done a good job in dissolving clots blocking blood vessels in the legs of 35 patients.

Next it will be tested against clots blocking arteries bringing blood to the heart muscle. Such blockage causes coronary attacks.

This chemical is a normal part of human and cow blood, and is known as Plasmin RPMI 10. RPMI means Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

sit works against clots which are no more than five days old. Dr. Julian Ambrus told science writers on an American Cancer Society visit to major cancer research centers. It's much less effective against older clots, or fails altogether to dissolve them.

The new agent is different from another chemical recently reported in Boston as a promising anti-clot drug. That chemical was derived from molds.

RPMI 10 was found during tests of 50 plasmin preparations. Radioactive blood clots were created in arteries of dogs and monkeys, then the drug was injected. Geiger counters measured how fast the radioactive clot disappeared.

Heart attacks and brain strokes often come from blockage of arteries by clots. The new agent might dissolve them quickly, to minimize the long-term damage, but it could not prevent the initial damage done when a clot halts the blood flow. It might well prevent later and more serious or fatal clots.

The research was conducted by Dr. Ambrus, his wife, Dr. Clara Ambrus, and Doctors J. E. Sokal, C. Markus, N. Beck and G. E. Collins.

Six Persons Die In Head-on Crash

SALMON, Idaho — Six persons died in a head-on crash that injured three others yesterday. One car carried a nursing home proprietor and four elderly patients. The other bore a woman and her three children.

Critically hurt were Flora Cassell, 65, and Kirk Walchli, 4. The third survivor, Lynn Walchli, 6, was seriously injured.

The Walchli children were riding with their mother Cecelia, 31, and brother Raymond, 12, both of whom were killed.

Mrs. Cassell was the lone survivor in the car driven by William H. Silbaugh, the nursing home proprietor. He was killed, as were Gertrude Cockrell, 72, Josephine Trowbridge, 70, and Alice Kirtley, 70.

East, Far West Get Rainfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was more wet weather for sections of the East and the Far West today but it was fairly mild and pleasant in most of the mid-continent.

Precipitation was general during the night across the Atlantic Coast states from New York state southward through South Carolina, with rain in scattered sections of Georgia and Florida.

Although rain fell in most areas, snow was reported in some mountain areas of New York, the Virginias and Pennsylvania. Heaviest rainfall during the night was at Charleston, S.C., which was drenched with about 1½ inches and making a 24-hour total of 2.28 inches.

NEW YORK — The exhibition of Sir Winston Churchill's paintings closed yesterday at the Metropolitan Museum of Art with a record-breaking attendance of 147,750 for the 24-day showing.

Sedalia Senior Wins Maytag Scholarship

Patricia Jo Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Fisher, Sedalia, was one of 21 high school seniors awarded a Maytag Foundation scholarship, it was announced today by Foundation President Robert E. Vance, vice-president and secretary of the Maytag Co., Newton, Ia.

Patricia's father is a regional manager calling on Maytag dealers in and around Sedalia. She will be a liberal arts major at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.

A total of eight of the winners are sons or daughters of Maytag employees. In addition to Patricia, this year's winners include 17 Newton high school seniors, one from Hampton, Iowa, and one from Allentown, Pa. Estimated four-year cost of the scholarships announced today is $51,000.

The Maytag Foundation scholarship program, begun in 1953 and under which 48 students currently are attending college, was expanded last year to include the awarding of honor and half scholarships, to enable recognition of worthy students who require little or no financial assistance to attend school.

A full scholarship pays tuition and fees, plus $150 a year to the student and $500 a year to the school he or she attends. Half scholarships pay half the above amounts. An honor scholarship is accompanied by an annual $100 cash grant, plus a $100 grant yearly to the school if the institution isn't receiving a grant from another student's half or full scholarship.

All sons and daughters of Maytag employees may compete for scholarships, as well as all Newton high school seniors. Recipients are selected on the basis of high school scholarship, extra-curricular activities, leadership, conduct and results of college aptitude tests. Financial need determines the type of award.

Land Plane Causes Death of Driver

BILLINGS, Mont. — A land plane he had built caused the death of Paul Sitzman, 19, during its first test run.

Sheriff Paul Kober said the propeller-driven craft lost a front wheel while Sitzman and a cousin, Walter Sitzman, were guiding it on a rural road near here. It was powered by a 72-horsepower airplane engine.

The craft rolled end over end, flipping Paul Sitzman into the air. He came down into the whirling propeller blades. His cousin, tossed clear, was not seriously hurt.

'Gawker' Presents Driving Hazard

DETROIT — Detroit police have a name now for one type of bad expressway driver. He's a "gawker." Traffic Director Louis J. Berg, in a report on expressway driving, says the "gawker"—whom he calls a "real menace"—is the driver who insists on slowing down to look at somebody else's accident.

Royal Rumor Claims Princess Dressed Down

LONDON — Rumors flew today that Queen Elizabeth gave Princess Margaret a royal dressing down for seeing Peter Townsend last week. But as usual with rumored royal rows, nobody who really knows is talking.

All that is known publicly about yesterday's two-hour meeting between the royal sisters is this:

Looking pale and worried, Margaret returned from a weekend visit to Germany after gaily dancing all night with officers of a British regiment of which she is colonel in chief.

A car was driven up to the plane ramp at the London airport to avoid news men. Margaret was driven straightaway to Windsor Castle to see the Queen.

Three was no doubt that the sisters talked about Margaret's reunion with the ex-RAF hero she renounced in 1955 because he was divorced.

Mother Seeking Return of Baby By Officials

DETROIT — A young Detroit mother sought return of a 20-month-old son whom his grandmother tried to give away in a Columbus, Ohio, drugstore.

Mrs. Barbara Velcich, 25, said she would ask Columbus welfare officials to give her back the boy, Tommy. Tommy has become known as "the baby nobody wanted."

"I don't want to give him away," Mrs. Velcich sobbed when told hundreds of couples in four states wanted to adopt Tommy after reading published accounts of his plight.

The child was taken to a children's home in Columbus after a woman called police last Thursday to report that Mrs. Nettie McCoy, Mrs. Velcich's mother-in-law, had tried to give her the youngster.

Mrs. McCoy told police Mrs.

The flavor and color of honey varies with the different flowers from which the bees gather nectar.

Velcich and the child's father Denny, 24, had abandoned Tommy in her care and she was unable to take care of him. Mrs. Velcich said she has been trying to persuade Mrs. McCoy to return the child and had lost contact with her.

"If I'd known this was going to happen, I'd have hitchhiked there to get him," said Mrs. Velcich, who is expecting a third child in July. She has another child, Arlene, 9 months.

Tommy's father is a $24-a-week part-time truck driver.

A spokesman for the children's home said the Velcichs have a right to keep Tommy.

MAYOR J. H. BAGBY'S ELECTION EVE MESSAGE TO ALL SEDALIA CITIZENS

Fellow Citizens:

This evening, on the eve of our City Election, I propose to talk to you, not in a spirit of partisanship, but instead as a citizen who wishes to share with his fellow citizens, some of his thoughts on the functions of municipal government.

CITY GOVERNMENT IS PEOPLE — nothing more or less. The ultimate success, or failure, of any government must be judged by its relations with the lives of the people it is charged to serve. In the final analysis, we govern ourselves. We hold in high regard both our own rights and our obligations to others. Yet, our liberties are necessarily restrained by laws and restrictions, which we impose upon ourselves, in order that we may live orderly and in peace with our neighbors.

The re-building of our city, or of any city, to meet the needs and demands of the late 20th century, will require the fullest use of our resources and leaders, both private and public. But, above everything else, the future of Sedalia will depend upon the intelligent application, and the prudent exercise, of the responsibilities of city government. City government alone has the authority, as representative of all of the people, to formulate plans for the future, to transform these plans into workable programs of positive action, to press for the early completion of these programs, and to enlist the cooperative support of those who will share in the benefits to be derived from their adoption. City Government is the only agency close enough to the lives of its citizens to perform the task ahead with genuine democratic understanding and sympathy.

City government has a habit of taking on the character of its leaders. It cannot be progressive and purposeful unless its leaders give it life, vitality, and direction. Government becomes progressive, or backward, and cities become attractive or ugly, well designed or slovenly, and vital or dead, as their leaders shape their course. WE ARE BUILDING TODAY FOR TOMORROW. We are committing ourselves for the future, and, the end result will reflect the intelligence, the spirit, the vision, and the character of those in positions of leadership. It, therefore, behooves you, the citizens of Sedalia, to select your elected officials in the sure knowledge that unless the city officials you elect provide efficient, economical, and progressive leadership, your city will fall behind to the degree that those officials are lacking in vision and wisdom.

Those of us who are running for election on the Democratic Ticket are willing to be judged on our past record, and, on our program for the future. We believe that our record—has been one of positive performance and accomplishment. We believe that it will stand up under critical examination, and we have made every effort these past few weeks to focus public attention upon it. In addition, and, in the belief that people are more vitally concerned with the future than they are with the past, we have submitted our platform for the future for full examination.

In the field of STREETS AND TRAFFIC CONTROL, we have been willing to come to grips with the multiple problems created by the increased use of the modern automobile. Over two hundred blocks of permanent type asphalt streets have been constructed, and we are pledged to continue this program at an accelerated rate. Additional streets will be given a permanent type surface as fast as the property owners concerned will agree to finance the improvements—and, we will continue toward our goal of a good street in front of every home in our city.

Parking lot sites have been purchased, construction has started, and new lots should be purchased and improved as the need develops.

New traffic signals have been installed, and, under the leadership of our Citizens Traffic Advisory Committee, the solution to the ever changing traffic problem will be the subject of continuing study.

The new street lighting contract negotiated by the city provided for a quarter of a million dollar street and traffic light installation.

And, if you believe that we are moving in the right direction, I say to you, in behalf of the candidates of the Democratic Party, that we will appreciate your vote of confidence tomorrow.

In the area of parks and recreation, we believe that our record will speak with authority. Playground areas, tennis courts, croquet courts, concessions, drinking water facilities, new playground equipment, new maintenance machinery, picnic tables, restrooms, lights, a grandstand, fences, rose gardens, trees, and flower beds have been added to our parks. The stadium, swimming-pool, shelter house, band shell, and many other existing facilities have been renovated and improved. THIS IS NOT IDLE CAMPAIGN TALK. Every feature that I have mentioned, and dozens of others, are in use and open for your inspection.

These improvements have been made by following a business-like, pay-as-you-go policy, and, without resort to the special and additional park tax levies that some Missouri cities have levied against their citizens for recreational purposes.

Your present city government administration has spent almost fifty thousand dollars more for parks and recreation, during the past four years than the previous administration expended during the same period of time. And, we have financed this greatly stepped up activity without increased taxes. We welcome your judgement on such a program, and, we are pledged to further expand these facilities and to further increase the recreational opportunities in Sedalia for all age levels.

May I also remind you, in this closing talk, that the candidates of the Democratic Party are also prepared to adopt, and to implement, a sensible, realistic, and municipally sponsored program, designed, not only to attract new industries and payrolls to our city, but also to assist our existing industries in any plans for expansion that they may contemplate. We are prepared to give vigorous and active leadership in the field of increased industrial activity.

We believe that city government should be actively concerned with the promotion of this city's future economic well-being, and our full support is offered to any group seriously concerned with this objective. The scope of our efforts, in this endeavor, will be limited in only two respects: First, we shall not give preferential treatment to new prospects while we turn our backs to our present industries; and Second, we shall analyze our prospects for the purpose of rejecting economic aid to inadequately financed, marginal industries that are merely looking for a location in which to speculate with other people's money.

As we bring our discussion of city affairs to a close, let us take a final and impartial look at this administration's stewardship of your tax money. In the final analysis that government is best that provides its citizens with a maximum of service at a minimum of cost. During the final year of the previous administration, the expenses of operating the city exceeded the city's income by over four thousand dollars. During the most recent calendar year of your present city administration, income exceeded expenses, and today the city's bank account contains over sixty thousand dollars more than it did four years ago.

And, while the city's cash position has been strengthened, we have, at the same time, been forced to operate the city with inflated dollars. We have increased the wages of every employee in the police, fire, street and sanitation departments $35.00 per month above the scale paid four years ago. The expenses of operating the police department have increased sixty-one percent; the cost of maintaining the streets has increased fifty-five per cent; and, the expenditures of both the fire and sanitation departments are over thirty percent greater than they were in 1953.

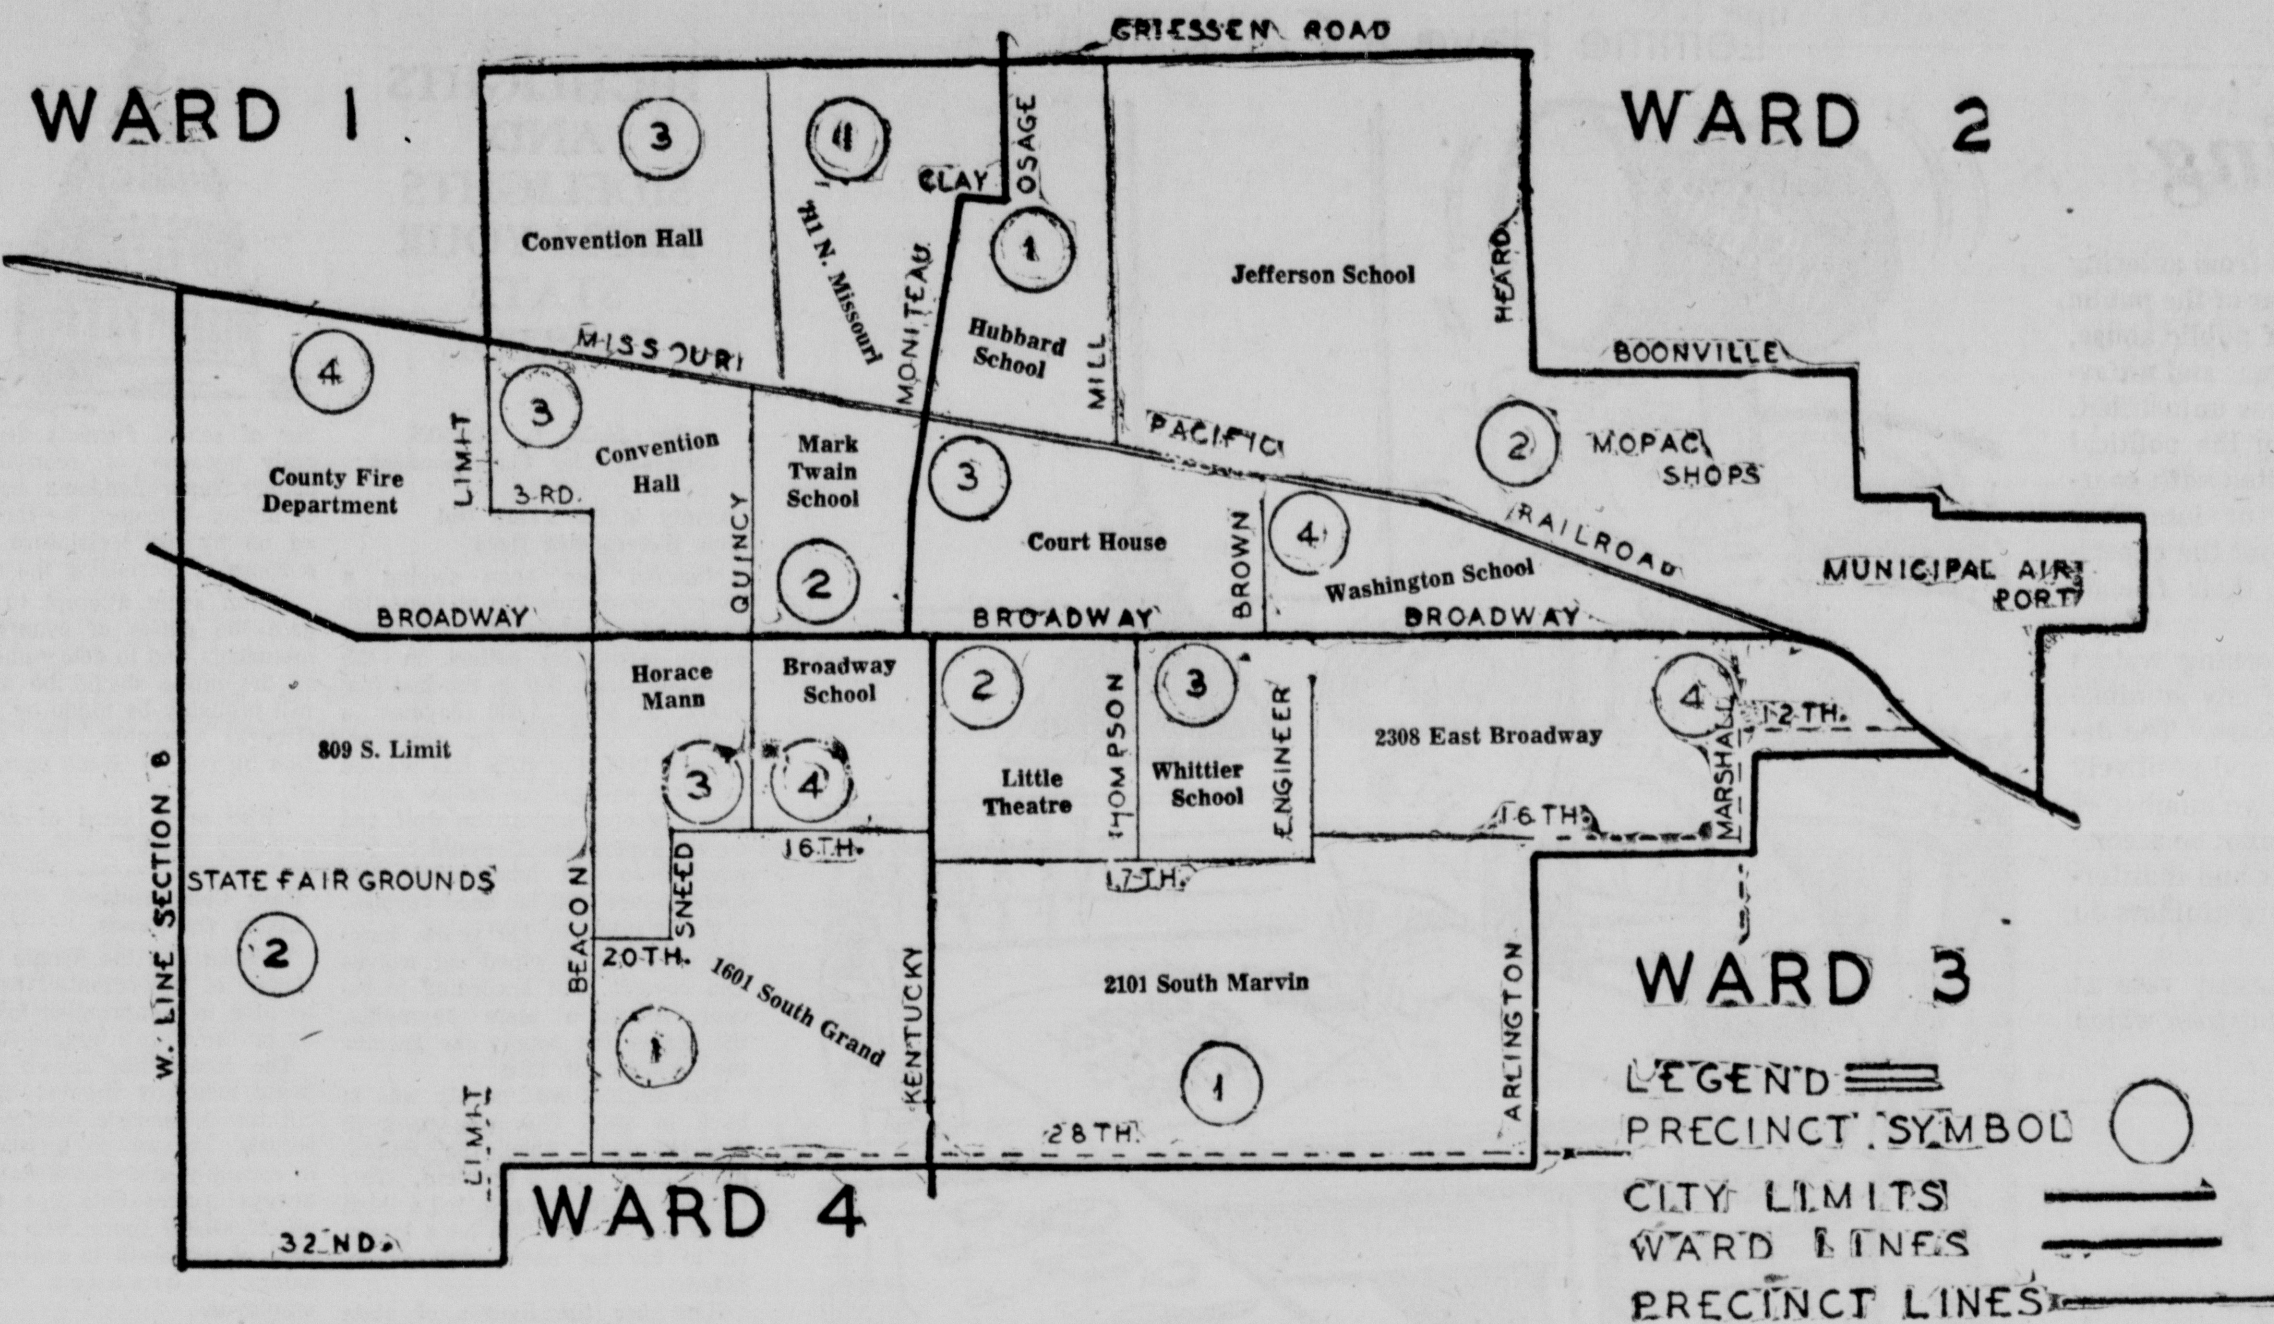

We have met the economic challenge of increasing costs. We have provided additional services for the people of Sedalia. We have purchased over one hundred thousand dollars worth of new equipment. We have retired over three hundred thousand dollars worth of the city's bonded indebtedness. We have taken over the ownership of a three and a half million dollar water system, without increasing the water rates. We have increased the city's cash balance by over sixty thousands dollars. AND, WE HAVE DONE THESE THINGS WITHOUT INCREASING YOUR TAX RATE ONE PENNY. This record is unique in the history of Sedalia, and, we do not believe you will find it duplicated by any city in Missouri of Sedalia's class and size.

I hope that, sometime tomorrow, between the hours of six A.M. and seven P.M., you will go to the polls and exercise your right, and duty, as an American citizen, by VOTING FOR THE CANDIDATES OF YOUR CHOICE. In this campaign for re-election, I have done my best to talk sense with the people of Sedalia. I have not belittled my opponents, nor have I questioned their sincerity or integrity. When I am unable to ask for public office on my own record, and when I am unwilling to seek support for my own program, I will not resort to insulting the intelligence of good and honest people by campaigning on the shortcomings of my opponents.

I have tried to deal with facts and with reality, and, I have endeavored to make my approach to this election positive and constructive. I have meant every word that I have said, and if, with the help of your vote, I am given the opportunity, I shall devote myself to the keeping of every promise that I have made.

Julian H. Bagby.

Democratic City Committee, John C. McCloskey, Chairman.

VOTING PLACES FOR TUESDAY—This is a map of the wards and precincts in Sedalia, and each of the precincts contains the name of the voting place for its residents. Note that the old first precinct of the first ward has been divided, part of it being taken over by the third precinct, with the voting place to be at Convention Hall, and the other remaining as the first precinct and with the same voting place as before. The dividing line is a line 300 feet east of Missouri Avenue. The voting places will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Tuesday. Each voting place will be manned by three judges from each of the two parties, and the first two judges from each party will each choose their own clerks, meaning a total of four clerks for each voting place.

Use Artistic Ability

Careful Flower Selections Make Up Colorful Gardens

We can't all be painters and we can't all be musicians, but we can all develop our own private type of artistic ability when it comes to planning the colors in our garden.

The simplest garden can contain only one type flower in one color, but that's not much fun. Slightly more variation can be had by selecting a mixed packet of zinnia seed described as containing shades of pink. This would provide subtle contrast. The next logical and more advanced step would be to select other flowers in shades of pink to combine with the zinnias such as snapdragons, China aster, clarkia, petunia, Phlox Drummondii, cleome, larkspur, dianthus and others. By combining more than one type of flower, we gain more than color interest alone as there will be considerable variation in plant and flower form.

Combining several colors in a garden is fascinating. Flower colors seldom clash, but a carefully arranged color harmony stands out as something extra special. The same combinations you admire in clothes or in your home furnishings will combine well in the garden. Try blues and purples with yellows and oranges. A few examples include blue bachelor buttons or purple China asters with yellow or orange African marigolds; blue cynoglossum with yellow gaillardia; purple petunias and orange gazanias; Salvia farinacea with yellow zinnias.

Bright reds are useful for accents and combine well with white and blue. . . red zinnias, blue cynoglossum and white cosmos. White flowers are useful throughout the garden, as they lend a softening note, as do gray foliage plants such as dianthus and dusty miller. Delicate sprays of flowers like that of baby's breath have a similar effect.

In planning the border, keep in mind that groupings should be several feet in diameter and of uneven shape rather than a perfect circle. If groups are made too small, the appearance will be spotty. Each group of a given plant should be repeated several times.

If a border of annuals can be made against a background of shrubs or by a wall or fence, the flowers will show to best advantage. If this is not possible, plan to use some really tall flowers in the rear such as hollyhocks, cleome, the tallest snapdragons or giant zinnias.

In a mixed border a good rule of thumb is to plant the tallest flowers to the rear, the medium tall plants in the center and the low ones along the edge. However, don't take this so literally that the rows look like soldiers or a planting of vegetables. Let the groups flow one into another with some right up into the foreground. This creates bays or pockets and prevents monotony.

When your garden comes into full bloom, it's bound to be beautiful. But if you're like most gardeners, you'll see flaws that you can improve next year. Perhaps the variety of zinnias you chose were too tall and hid the snapdragons in the rear, or the gazanias flowered so late that the color combination you had planned didn't work out. No matter! With careful notes your next year's garden will be perfect in both color and form.

Dogs Win Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (U)—It's a dog's world as far as the animal stars of movies and television are concerned.

The annual acting awards bestowed by the American Humane Assn. on Hollywood's animal colony went this year to Spike, star of the film "Old Yeller," and Lassie, who has her own television show.

Only noncanine to break into the top awards was Beauty, a horse who got second place in the movie division for her performance in "Wild Is the Wind."

Second place in the TV division went to Cleo, of "The People's Choice." Rin-Tin-Tin won the third place TV award and Kelly, dog star of "Kelly and Me," finished third in the movie division.

Legislature May Allow Extension Of Acreage Plan

C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County ASC Committee reports that most farmers who wanted to take part in the 1958 Acreage Reserve of the Soil Bank, but could not file signed agreements because of fund limitations, will apparently be able to sign up at the county office in the near future.

Both the Senate and the House of Representatives have approved a supplemental appropriation of 250 million dollars to provide for additional acreage reserve participation. This will bring the total to 750 million dollars for the 1958 program. Because agreement on some detailed program provisions must still be reached in house-senate conference, congressional action on the supplemental appropriation is not yet complete. As soon as final action is taken, the county committee will get the "go ahead" for completing the sign-up. Preliminary steps have been taken by the State ASC Committee to prepare the way for immediate action when the supplemental funds are authorized.

In addition to farmers who have already filed signed agreements, which were in general covered by the initial appropriation for the acreage reserve, other eligible farmers will be in position to take part in the enlarged program. These will include those whose names are on "waiting list" registers at the county office.

While it is expected that in general funds will be available to take care of all farmers who indicated that they would take part in the program if it was enlarged, there is a legislative annual limitation of 300 million dollars for the corn acreage reserve. Because the total of signed agreements and other applications on waiting lists would call for more than 300 million dollars, if all the corn applications were completed, some adjustment will be necessary for this crop.

Public notice will be given promptly when the county ASC office is ready to sign additional acreage reserve agreements. Chairman Staples says that in the meantime the county office will be prepared to furnish general information but that farmers should not attempt to sign up agreements until official announcements are made.

Unemployment Racket Stirs Investigation

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The unemployment of many veterans has started a racket which doesn't help veterans very much, if any, but does fill the pockets of racketeers.

The scheme works this way: people are asked to buy cheap merchandise at high prices to aid the employment of veterans.

Aroused, the House veterans committee has been investigating such selling organizations and the report of the findings will be made public very soon.

Just one of these deals, involved several million dollars from the mailing of low grade articles with a high pressure plea for money from soft-hearted people.

Meanwhile, the public has been warned to make certain any begging letters to purchase certain articles in order to help veterans are closely examined, and if suspicious to send the letter on to the House Veterans Committee.

It is being produced on 18 million acres of leased land in the United States.

Cops Locked Out

Two Family Dogs Help Rescue Youth

KANSAS CITY (U)—Mrs. George Davis says the family's two dogs helped save her 2-year-old son Glen from drowning.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis and Glen were visiting at her father's farm near Mercer, Mo., Friday when Glen wandered away from the house.

Davis noticed his son was missing and then saw the two dogs at the edge of a pond about 50 feet from the home. The dogs were intently watching ripples in the water.

Davis pulled the boy out and revived him in about two minutes.

Says Explorer III Will Last Months

PASADENA, Calif. (U)—The United States' newest satellite will remain in orbit long enough to complete its job of gathering cosmic ray data, says one of the men who helped build it.

Dr. Henry Richter of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Explorer III should last "several months."

Its orbit, which carries it 2,000 miles from the earth at one point, overlaps regions in which high-altitude rockets have made readings, he added, thus providing scientists with a valuable check on data already received.

Now Comes The Voting

If anyone hasn't had his two-bits worth of comment on the candidates in the city election the past two weeks, then he has none to blame but himself.

This has been open season on political discussion the likes of which Sedalia has not experienced in many years. Notwithstanding, the comment has been reasonably free of mud-slinging although the occasion invited it with three mayoralty candidates in the field.

Certainly claims and counter-claims have been exaggerated, numerous distortions manufactured, and in some instances ridiculous promises made by those who would like to get their hands on the city administration throttle.

Really it is a credit to Sedalia that the campaign did not wind up with the label "dirty." This should be an encouragement to those who seek public office in this community because more than any other factor which discourages capable men with good reputations from entering the political field, is the fear of the public attitude toward politics, of public abuse, of wagging malicious tongues and unfavorable publicity, many times unjustified.

So, the men who are in the political lists today should be credited with courage. Whether they win or lose they should have no regrets about the experience and neither should their friends and supporters.

Beginning Tuesday morning voters must make their choice of city administrators for the next four years. The decision should be definitely and positively expressed by a representative number of registered voters. This cannot be accomplished if the stay-at-homes and indifferent citizens by choice or forgetfulness do not go to the polls.

Let's make Sedalia's Tuesday vote as healthy as the voluble enthusiasm which preceded it.

Hot Moscow Cables On Bomb Test Ban

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Dramatic backstage hints trickled out of Moscow last week regarding the banning of future H-bomb tests.

First came a cabled report from the American embassy in Moscow regarding a cocktail party at which Nikita Khrushchev talked for an hour with the Swedish ambassador about disarmament. He said Russia's new atomic tests had been so successful that Russia had enough atomic hydrogen bombs to poison the entire world, and that Russia would now stop all further explosions.

Khrushchev appeared to be dead serious. He was not drinking.

He added gleefully that unilateral action by Russia in stopping H-bomb tests would put the United States on trial before the world for proceeding with its H-bomb tests in mid-Pacific this spring.

The Swedish ambassador was so impressed by this conversation that he tipped off his fellow ambassadors and the American embassy cabled the conversation to Washington. This was why President Eisenhower hastily announced at his press conference one day later that the United States would invite foreign observers to view the Pacific H-bomb tests, especially our "clean" bomb, which is not supposed to have dangerous radioactive fallout. Emphasis on the clean bomb was given in order to offset expected Russian emphasis on the poison spread from strontium 90, the most deadly aftermath from nuclear explosions.

Meanwhile, the American embassy in Moscow kept up a steady bombardment of cables to Washington. It warned the State Department to be prepared for spectacular news developments in Russia. It also reported another cocktail conversation at which Khrushchev had told the Canadian ambassador that all production of H-bombs should be stopped at once.

Both the United States and Russia, Khrushchev added, would have twice as many bombs as are necessary to kill all the people in the world.

When this was cabled to Washington by the American embassy in Moscow it inspired State Department advisers to suggest to Ike that he leave the door open for the ending of H-bomb tests even without banning H-bomb production.

Guest Editorial

CAPE GIRARDEAU MISSOURIAN: School Bus Safety. Two recent incidents involving school buses, as reported in the news, have served to call attention to the great responsibility that rests on those who as drivers of the vehicles have the lives of school children in their hands.

But they have also served to raise the question whether more rigid requirements for drivers and a strict enforcement of those we have are needed.

For example, in the Kentucky tragedy in which 27 young lives were lost, preliminary investigation indicated that the driver may have had a heart attack before his bus hit two other vehicles and plunged into a river. If so, then at least under normal circumstances a medical examination would have shown this. And if one of the requirements for a license to drive a school bus had been such a medical check this accident might have been prevented.

Missouri has no such law, although school districts get blanks for such examinations from the state and are urged to use them. How many do so is a question.

There is pending in the Legislature now a bill that will help promote school bus safety. Its chief feature provides that other vehicles must halt for a standing school bus in both incorporated and unincorporated areas. The present law applies only outside cities.

Another feature of the measure, introduced by Sen. Spradling, also is important. It would prohibit school bus drivers from taking on or discharging passengers unless there is a visibility of 300 feet in each direction on the highway. This provision would be very important in preventing buses from stopping near the crest of a hill or at the beginning of a curve.

Since every safeguard possible should be thrown about the operation of school buses the bill should be approved.

ANB on Recently-Passed Housing Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an ABC on the housing bill, recently passed by Congress, which President Eisenhower is expected to sign into law. It affects veterans, nonveterans and money-lenders. It's an antirecession step intended to boost homebuilding with government help. That help will take various forms but briefly these: to make it a little easier to borrow money and a little more profitable to lend it.

Congress hopes it will get 200,000 new homes started in 1958, in addition to those which would be built anyway. It may cost the government $1,850,000,000. Congress voted that much for it.

Just to show how homebuilding has slumped: In 1955 about 1,300,000 new homes were started. This dropped in 1957 to 989,000. New starts in February were the lowest for any February in nine years. At the February rate only 890,000 homes would be started in 1958.

The bill, if it becomes law, will affect mainly the operations of three government agencies dealing in housing: the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration and the Federal National Mortgage Assn.

Through FHA and VA the government has been insuring or guaranteeing mortgages on homes so that money lenders, like banks, will be encouraged to keep on lending.

FNMA helps out in another way. But first the background on what FHA and VA do now and what the bill would enable them to do:

FHA Now a person getting an FHA-insured loan must make a down payment of at least 3 per cent ($300) on the first 10 per cent of the home's value, 15 per cent on the value between $10,000 and $16,000, and 30 per cent on what's over $16,000.

The bill will let the down payment be 3 per cent on the first $13,500, then 15 per cent between $13,500 and $16,000, and 30 per cent on what's over $16,000. The FHA will, as in the past, insure the mortgage in full.

VA The VA guarantees loans to veterans of World War I. This program was supposed to end July 25, 1958. The bill would extend the program until July 25, 1960.

Of the 14,250,000 veterans of World War II, only about 4,800,000 have taken advantage of the VA guarantee in buying a home. Congress hopes that by extending the program two years more veterans will seek VA help.

Besides guaranteeing loans that money lenders made to veterans, the VA also made direct loans to veterans in remote areas where it was hard to borrow money. This program was supposed to end July 25, 1958. It also, has been extended two years. (Note: The VA program for Korean veterans still has years to go.)

Further — homebuilding by war veterans under the VA program has been drying up because the VA couldn't guarantee loans on mortgages where the interest rate was higher than 4½ per cent. Money lenders were passing up these VA-guaranteed mortgages to put their money into something giving them higher interest.

This bill authorizes the VA to guarantee homebuilding loans with interest up to 4½ per cent.

What They Say

EUGENE E. WILLIAMS (1600 South Moniteau) — Sedalia voters will go to the polls Tuesday to exercise their most intimate political duty — selecting local governmental leaders. Every eligible constituent should indicate his or her pride in Sedalia by voicing convictions of the issues at hand by discharging this precious liberty.

By intelligently performing this duty, the initial step for intelligent and rational government is made because political interest of the masses is required insurance for political excellence of the elected.

In regard to the city campaign which is nearing a close, it is only fair to emphasize that the political party in office always is subject to the harshest criticism. This maxim holds true in national, state, county and city level politics. It has been true in Sedalia and rightly so.

The privileges of the democratic process charge the minority party with the function of honest criticism. Equitable suggestions and criticisms by the minority and opposition to dubious activities of the majority are integral parts of efficient government. When the party out of power fails to perform this function, it is failing a large segment of the population. The voters must include consideration not only of the record they know, but the record based on official public statements made by the candidates during the campaign.

On the other hand, abstract criticisms, absurd charges and ridiculous boasts also must be considered out of context with the responsibility of a political party.

During this campaign the oratory has been on an acceptable level. Publicly, an idealist effort has been made by the Republican, Democratic and Citizen ticket spokesmen as they have remained within the confines of the actual issues and not personalities in most instances. Privately, however, the campaign has been substandard to a degree.

Publicly the criticisms of the Democratic Administration of the past four years have been stated by the Republicans and Citizens ticket — and at this point of the campaign one must assume that all legitimate criticisms have been brought to light. In reality, these faults are not of major significance. The platforms of the three political parties — and of every Sedalian — sum up to an ambition for the betterment of Sedalia. The lone difference is found in the fact that the Democratic party, as the party in power, has shown competence in providing efficient government and success in its efforts for civic improvement.

Privately, this has not been a "Clean" campaign according to my interpretation of political ethics. Healthy people talk politics — and Sedalians are a healthy lot. However, into these private discussions a pungent line of unofficial allegations has been injected by political agitators. As usual these agitators remain anonymous. To believe their scuttled, surely blown up far out of proportion to reality, is to believe that Sedalia suffers from mal-administration and boodle which would win top honors in comparison to the clas-

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Bounty Is 120 Years Old But Wolves Still Here

Missouri has been paying a bounty on wolves for at least 120 years so you'd think the wily coyote would be extinct in the Show-Me state. But in the last few years, at least 3,000 coyotes a year are presented for payment.

Since 1946, the state has wasted nearly a half million dollars as its share of eradicating the wolf and coyote population. It would be impossible to tell how much was spent before that for dead coyotes.

You'd think in 120 years, hunters would have wiped out wolves and coyotes. But according to recent records of state payments, the higher the bounty the greater the number of kills.

The original wolf bounty was $1 back in 1837. This was back in pioneer days when the animal might have been a problem. This county figure jumped to a high of $30 in 1951 and has been lowered to $15 for each adult coyote killed.

Here are the figures of state payments for the bounty in recent years: 1946-47, $15,375; 47-48, $20,625; 48-49, $30,000; 49-51, $60,000; 51-53, $125,541; 53-55, $105,000; 55-57, 80,000; and 57-58, 35,000.

It's obvious that when the bounty was $3 a head the state which pays two-thirds of the bounty cost, was doing a landslide business in dead coyotes. Since the bounty was reduced to $15 a head, business has been falling off. It's a mild recession in which higher bounties would probably bring better business.

The conservation commission thinks better results might be obtained if no bounty was offered. Instead, the commission would teach farmers to trap any wild animal harming livestock and to let the rest of the predators alone.

The whole thing boils down to whether the state is wasting its money in trying to wipe out coyotes or spending it wisely in providing a profitable sport for hunters.

Superintendent's Office Still a Hot Issue

You're almost sure to get an argument in the House of Representatives over proposals to abolish the office of county superintendent of schools.

The House recently amended a Senate resolution calling for a study of public schools to include an investigation of the duties of county superintendents. The amendment passed by a 57-56 majority but it indicates that many House members would like to look into the situation.

The investigation of the duties of the county superintendents isn't a sure thing for this special session but it's in the offing in the next regular session.

County superintendents in third class counties receive from $3600 to $5390 and in fourth class counties the salary range is from $3600 to $4910. Although the superintendents are county officials, the state pays half or better of the salary.

Here's the amounts the state pays on superintendent's salaries in each third and fourth class county: $400 on the base salary; $600 for making up a budget for school districts; $600 for making a census of students; $600 ($300 in fourth class counties) for a census of handicapped children, plus from $375 to $735 for acting as supervisor of transportation.

The state legislature has added pay raise for county superintendents for years without considering whether the office is outmoded. It's apparent that with the number of school districts decreasing daily because of reorganization, county superintendents have fewer duties — except for those tackled on by the legislature for the purpose of increasing the salaries.

A full scale attempt to investigate the duties of county superintendents and to determine whether the office should be abolished will probably be made by the next General Assembly. But as Rep. Don Burrell (R-Green county) puts it: "Who ever heard of abolishing a public office?"

Easy Compromise Likely On Funds

It looks like the Senate and the House of Representatives should be able to compromise fairly easily on the state's budget this year.

The House has shown signs of being economy minded and has cut the governor's budget by $2,600,000, instead of increasing as in recent years. The Senate which always makes cuts has whacked off $2,000,000 more with a major part of the slash in recommended salary increases for state employees.

Part of the Senate cuts came at the expense of funds for the King road law. The House allowed $1,500,000 for emergency spending on this law until June 1 but the Senate cut this back to $890,000—the amount recommended by the governor. For next year's spending on King roads, the House allowed $3,000,000 but the Senate reduced this to $2,000,000.

The Senate increased funds for Aid to Dependent Children by $100,000 over the governor's recommended figure and $400,000 over the House figure.

It will be in places like these and in a $100,000 cut for agricultural extension services that the House and Senate will likely clash. But the gaps between the two bodies aren't terribly wide and compromising shouldn't be difficult.

You'd think the two groups could swap appropriation differences back and forth easily but it seems logical to assume that final appropriation figures won't be passed until April 3 — the last day of the special session.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Jesus entered the temple in Jerusalem and cast out the people who were buying and selling the merchandise of commercialized worship. He said "My house shall be called the house of prayer." Yesterday there were many who thought of their churches as "houses of prayer." Many others entered their sanctuary with more thought of the show or duty of the occasion than they did of the prayers they were going to say to God.

This central purpose of the church must ever be remembered. We cannot overlook the fact that prayer gave Christ the strength to go through this last week of His life. He did not limit His prayer to the temple. He turned to His Father in the Garden of Gethsemane, also.

We must pray this week not only in our churches, but wherever we can go off into a secluded place to be alone with God.

THE ATOM COMES OF AGE—The recent opening of the Westinghouse atomic electric power plant at Shippingport, Pa., put the spotlight on the growth of "atoms for peace." Newsmap shows five atomic plants now in operation, delivering civilian power. Nine more are now under construction or negotiating contracts. And seven plants, to be built by private capital without any direct government financing, are in the planning stage. In addition to those in this country, six other plants, to be supplied with nuclear fuel by the U.S., are under construction or being contracted for in Anchorage, Alaska; Belgium, Brazil, Cuba, Italy and Mexico.

Pavement Plato Predicts Paradise in Second Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Sidewalk scrawls of a Pavement Plato. Some people say that, if they had the chance, they'd like to live their life all over again—repeating it step by step.

Such people do not impress me as being either happy or wise. They do not even impress me as being human. They impress me as being merely vocal phonograph records, too dizzy from their circular rut to make common sense.

A man who insists that, if he had it to do all over again, he'd do it in exactly the same way is either a perfect saint, a simpleton or an insufferable egotist.

The only real fun in contemplating a second life on earth lies in figuring how you would make it different. And if I had this chance, believe me, there'd be some changes made.

For example: A man born to money is like a duck in a pond. But a man who has to fight for wealth is like a hen in a brook. He never feels entirely comfortable. He always feels that in managing to escape from poverty he paid the price of losing his youth.

I would learn to play at least two instruments, so I could make music of my own, and not have to choose always between Beethoven and Elvis Presley. Some days it is better to make your own music.

I would read fewer fairy tales as a boy and read more poetry, history and biography. Many of a man's greatest mistakes in life comes from believing fairy tales.

At the age of five I would start brushing my teeth regularly three times a day and seeing my dentist at least twice a year. Then, if I still had to buy store molars before I was 50, I'd know whether to blame it on myself or heredity.

I would not quit the Boy Scouts at 13 just because a pretty red-haired girl moved into the house across the street. If you stay with the Scouts you will learn to find your way out of any forest. But once you get interested in red-haired girls you never get out of the woods.

I would learn to ride a horse, drive a car, fly an airplane. These abilities, for some reason, make you a more interesting conversationalist than if you journey through life on your own two feet, noting bud and bird with a quiet eye.

I would learn to play bridge.

Family Should Share

Family Vegetable Gardens Promote 'Together' Feeling

"Togetherness" is a word we're hearing more and more about these days. For there's a definite effort being made by our educators, civic and law enforcement groups to strengthen home ties by getting children and their parents to share more of their pleasures and problems together as a family unit.

A family vegetable garden is a good place to start. With today's trend toward packaged vegetables, there are probably children who don't even know that carrots and radishes are formed below the ground and that the peas they eat are grown in pods on vines.

An average size garden should be about 25x50 feet. If one wants to do without the luxury of fresh sweet corn, it can be even smaller.

Hold a family conference to decide what to grow and have each member pick which vegetables will be his responsibility. Catalogues, garden books and seed packets will help you with the work. They are full of information on how and when to plant, space between rows, number of days to maturity, etc.

Take a piece of ruled paper and mark out the rows to scale. If possible, run the rows North to South and local tall crops such as corn on the North side so they won't shade the other plants. The garden should be located in the full sun. Put vine crops such as cucumbers and melons in one general section so they won't overrun smaller plants. Keep long-season and short-season crops each in separate locations except where intercropping is used.

Guarantee good crops by the use of fertilizer. A safe general rule is to use 50 pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer to every 1,000 square feet. Spread half the quantity over the soil, then spade or plow; spread the remainder of the fertilizer and rake into the upper few inches. For long season crops or leafy vegetables, additional applications may be needed. This may be sprinkled between the rows and either watered or cultivated.

If you want to get as many vegetables as possible into a small area, here are two tricks you'll want to know about . . . intercropping and succession planting. When long season crops such as tomatoes and cabbage are first set out, the plants are generally spaced quite far apart to allow room for the plants when mature. In the meantime, you can intercrop, for a period of 30 days or so, by raising a quick crop such as radishes or lettuce in the space between and harvest before the long season crop matures and needs the space.

Try succession planting to avoid loading yourself down with too many ripe vegetables all at the same time. By planting the same crop at intervals, you'll have a good supply for a longer time. For example, in the very early spring make a first sowing of radishes; in ten days follow this with a second and in ten days a third. Since radishes don't thrive in the hot weather make no sowings during July and August but when the weather begins to cool, sow seed for a fall crop. The same practice can be used for lettuce. Two crops of peas, beans, carrots and beets may be had . . . one planted in very early spring, the other in early fall.

It's a good idea not to plant a late crop of a given vegetable in the same location that the early crop was grown. This is the well known principle of crop rotation. The reasons for this are somewhat complex, but basically it's a matter of soil fertility and disease control.

And what of the results? Sharing the work involved, sharing the pleasure of good eating and sharing the pride in a handsome garden, your family will develop a new respect for each other and a pleasure in working together.

Legend says that Esh Sham (Damascus), capital of Syria, was founded by Noah's grandson a few years after the great flood.
